Judge M. C. Saufley.

The people every where in this section of the State were shocked and grieved last Friday morning when the news was circulated that Judge Mike C. Saufley, had died suddenly at his home in Stanford, Ky. He had apparently been in better health than usual and was able to preside over the Court in his district with less fatigue than during his term of Circuit Judge six years previous. However we learn from those who were intimately associated with him that he was constantly depressed on account of the death of his son, the late Hon. George B. Saufley, who died some months ago. He was passionately devoted to his son George, who was the pride of the fathers heart.

Judge Saufley, at the request of his wife went out in the chicken yard about 8:30 o'clock to feed the chickens and a few minutes later his body was found still warm, he having died of heart disease.

He was sixty eight years of age, was born in Wayne County, entered the Confederate army when but nineteen years of age, and served as First Lieutenant under Gen. John H. Morgan, being captured and imprisoned at Johnson's Island.

The war over, he came to Lincoln county, and soon afterward married Miss Sallie Rowan, of McMinnville, Tenn., whom he had met during the war. She was the daughter of a distinguished lawyer of that State, S. D. Rowan, and a great granddaughter of Gov. Caswell, the first Governor of North Carolina.

Judge Saufley prepared for the bar, his life work, at the Louisville Law School, and quickly forged to the front of his profession. He was an uncompromising Democrat of the old school. He was elected County Judge of Lincoln county in 1870, and served till 1874. In 1880 he was a member of the electoral college from the Eighth district, and supported Gen. Hancock. In 1888 he was appointed by President Grover Cleveland Associate Justice of Supreme Court of Wyoming, and remained there until that Territory became a State. His experiences in the West were somewhat peculiar and often extremely interesting and exciting, and caused in to play his resourceful ability as well as splendid legal attainments.

At one time, with revolver in hand, he held in check a mob which had determined to take the law into its own hands and secure a prisoner accused of crime; but Judge Saufley, firm and fearless in defense of justice and right succeeded in averting what would have been a criminal proceeding on the part of the mob.

Returning to his home here in Kentucky, he was soon after elevated to the circuit bench in 1892. He was considered one of the most gifted orators in Kentucky, and his opinions were always lucid and scholarly, and were rarely reversed by the higher courts.

In 1898 Judge Saufley was defeated for Judge of the old Superior Court under the old Constitution, after an exciting convention, by Judge Barron. He was re-elected to the bench here, however, but was defeated for renomination for a third term by the late Judge W. C. Bell, of Mercer, who was recently killed in a wreck at Seale. Judge Saufley then made the race for Judge of the Court of Appeals in the Fifth Appellate district, but Judge James E. Cantrell won. Judge Bell's term expiring, Judge Saufley again stood for the circuit judgeship, won the Democratic nomination, carrying all the counties of the district over his opponent, and then won in the general election by the largest majority ever given a Democrat in this district. His third term had just begun, and he seemed in fine form to finish it out and fill still further honors. In fact, Judge Saufley was frequently mentioned as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of the State during the early days of this year. He gave up all idea of entering the race, however, when his son, George Saufley, died in March.

Besides his wife, Judge Saufley is survived by six children, out of eight whom he raised. Those living are Mrs. T. S. Webb, Jr., of Knoxville, Tenn.; Mrs. George L. Penny, of Stanford; Mrs. S. M. Logan, of Wilmore; Mrs. Bowan Saufley, of Stanford; James M. Saufley, of Graysville, Tenn.; and Midshamus Richard Caswell Saufley, of the United States battle ship Kansas.

People from all over the State and possibly the entire bars of every county in this judicial district assembled in Stanford Sunday afternoon to pay their last tribute to the memory of this noted Juist.

The funeral services were conducted by Elder Joseph Ballou and his body laid to rest in the Stanford Cemetery.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. will furnish a room at the new Lancaster hospital.

Elder Pitman will preach at the Christian church, at Hubble, Sunday morning and night.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bailey are entertaining a handsome little visitor at their home just now. The little lady has been christened Marie Bailey.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank our friends who have been so kind to us during our recent bereavement.

Court Day.

Next Monday is County Court Day here and there will very likely be a good crowd in town. We again ask all those who are in arrears to stop in and pay as we are in need of money.

Great Show.

The great stake of $1,000 at the Bluegrass Fair was hotly contested. Of course many were scratched when it was apparent the popular entries would be the highest class of saddle horses. Seven faced the three judges, who were Bales, Wilson and Buckner. The contestants were finally brought to four, and they were placed as follows: Golden Butterly, first; Kentucky Choice, second; Nazimova, third, and Bourbon Prince fourth. Emerald Bell, Bride of the Mistletoe and Golden Glow were the other entries. It was a memorable event and said to be the feature of the fair.

A Pretty Wedding.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Miller a very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday morning at ten thirty when Mrs. Mary Miller Frisbie and Mr. H. T. Logan were united in wedlock holy bond.

Sometime before the appointed hour the handsome home, which was decorated for the occasion, was filled with relatives and friends of the popular couple. Promptly at ten thirty the strains of Mendelssohn wedding march was heard and the bride and bridegroom walked into the parlor and stood in the bay window of the large pretty room where Rev. Henry Faulkner performed the impressive and beautiful ceremony that joined these two hearts and made them man and wife. The charming bride never looked lovelier than on this her wedding day. She was attired in a handsomely tailored gown of grey cloth with large black hat and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bridegroom is especially well known in this county, having spent most of his life in Lancaster and long been one of our most prosperous business men. He is now the Mayor of our city and is always at the head of all good enterprises for the public welfare.

The handsome presents displayed in the dining room of the home attest to some extent the popularity of this couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Logan left immediately for New York for a two weeks trip, after which they will be at home to their many friends at the Hotel Kangaroo. The Record extends congratulations and wishes them happiness.

Next Circuit Judge.

It will be necessary for Governor Wilson to appoint a Judge of this, the Thirteenth Judicial District to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Saufley. Many prominent republican lawyers of this district are mentioned in connection with the appointment. We have no way of knowing who will likely have the Governor's favor. Among those most prominently mentioned is Judge Wm. Herndon of this City who is being pushed by his friends. They say he is well qualified to fill the place and that by reason of having been the Republican nominee for this position last year, is entitled from a party standpoint, to the appointment.

The friends of the Hon. Lewis L. Walker of this City, who is one of the most prominent Republicans in the State, and is regarded as one of the most learned lawyers at this bar, are urging him to ask for the appointment, knowing that he would receive the endorsement of Senator Bradley should he desire the place, however it is not thought that Mr. Walker desires the appointment.

Judge Peter McRoberts of Stanford is very favorably mentioned. Judge McRoberts is eminently qualified for the place, and has a host of friends in every County in the district, who are saying that he will not quit the Governor until he has appointed them. Others favorably mentioned are Hon. R. T. Quisenberry of Danville, Judge Thos. Hardin and Judge B. F. Roach of Harrodsburg, Ky. The appointee of the Governor will serve until November election 1911 when a special election will be held to fill the vacancy. No special election can be had at the November election 1910 on account of the Constitutional election.

Mrs. Robert Elkin will entertain a number of her friends at her beautiful home Thursday evening at a six o'clock dinner in honor of Mrs. Geo. McRoberts, of Covington, and Mrs. Lee Cox, of St. Louis.

Fox Hunters to Meet at Crab Orchard.

The next annual meeting of the National Fox Hunters' Association will be held at Crab Orchard Springs beginning with the derby for young hounds on November 18. The bench show is to be on Monday of the following week. The committee composed of Gen. Roger Williams, Steve Walker, S. L. Wobridge, R. Parkes and Col. Jack Chinn, met in Lexington on Aug. 11th and made arrangements for the meeting. This means that a large crowd of people will be in Crab Orchard in November and all will have a jolly good time.

Com.

On last Thursday afternoon at two o'clock the soul of Mrs. Thomas W. Conn took its flight to the land beyond the skies and left the husband and two year old boy, Walter, together with many more relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

Her maiden name was Miss Bettie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Smith, of Fort Smith, Ark. She was married to Mr. Conn about four years ago in Tenn. The many friends of the deceased offer heart felt sympathy to the husband and little boy. The funeral was held at the Lancaster Cemetery on last Friday afternoon at three o'clock. Services conducted by Dr. E. H. Pierce.

Who Will Democrats Favor?

The vacancy in the office of Circuit Judge in this district, caused by Judge Saufley's death not only furnishes some good republican lawyer a fat job of $1250 a year until after the November election 1911 but gives the democrats of the district something to think about, for there will be an election next year and there is a nomination for the party to make. It is therefore, but natural that the question should be generally asked: "Who will the democrats nominate for Circuit Judge?" No aspirant has yet made an announcement of his candidacy but we opine that the bee is in the bonnet of a number of gentlemen in the district, any one of whom would fill the responsible place with credit. Friends of the Hon. W. I. Williams of this city are boasting him and urging him to make a fight for the nomination. They are saying for him that he is not only well qualified but is good judicial timber. We hear the name of Hon. Charles A. Hardin frequently mentioned upon the street in connection with the nomination. His friends are saying that he is entitled to the nomination on account of a party custom of elevating a Commonwealth attorney to the judges place when he has filled that office satisfactorily. Mr. Hardin has made a popular officer and has many friends all over the district. Hon. Joseph Paxton, of Stanford, is being urged by his host of admiring friends to ask for the nomination. Quite a number of well known democratic lawyers of Danville are being asked to make the race, among them being the Hons. Robert Harding, John W. Rawling, W. J. Price, C. C. Bagby and George Stone. The party has plenty of good material in the district and we will likely have a lively scramble for this desirable plum.

SCHOOL OPENS

First Monday in September.

School opens two weeks from next Monday, with the same teachers except Prof. Nickel, and Misses Sanford and Magee. Miss Bettie Robinson, of Campbellsville, will take Prof. Nickel's place and she needs no introduction to the patrons of the school as she has taught here before and her services proved very satisfactory.

Mrs. Ethel West Darnold will take Miss Sanford's grades and she will be a good one as she is very capable and energetic. She has been attending the Normal School at Richmond and is thoroughly prepared to take charge.

Mrs. Belle Burnsides was compelled to give up her place on account of her health so the board has selected Miss Minnie Walsh, of Campbellsville, a music teacher of eleven years experience and a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music at Boston, to take her place. Every teacher in the school is a good one and few schools can boast of as good a set of teachers and as good a man for Principal as Prof. D. W. Bridges. He has been at the head of our school for several years and they have been of the most successful and brightest in the history of school life in our County.

Prof. Bridges is by nature and education, an instructor. He has had years of experience and has led our school thro the most successful years it has ever known. We hope that every good citizen in Garrard County will do everything in their power to help the school this year. While this paper has always been a warm friend to the schools it intends to take a deeper interest in them during the ensuing year.

Already we have, as we think, the best Graded school of any county around us and we hope to see it continue to grow and bring more credit to our town.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.
FOR CONGRESS.
Harvey Helm, of Lincoln County.

Others Fight for County Option.

In a brilliant address before the State Democratic Convention in Nebraska on July 26th, Mr. Wm. J. Bryan urged the party to declare in favor of a county option law.

When the question was submitted to a vote a majority in the convention declined to follow the lead of the distinguished Nebraskan. However his position was not without its influence for both the Republican party and Populist party in that state have declared in favor of a county option law.

In presenting the question to the convention Mr. Bryan said: I affirm that county option is a democratic proposition; I refuse to go to the brewers to learn either constitutional law or the principles of the democratic party. Do you doubt that this state can vote on the liquor question, do you doubt that a city can vote on the liquor question? Of course you do not. Why can not a county, larger than a city, but smaller than a state, vote on the liquor question? Is it democratic for a state to vote on it, and democratic for a town to vote on it, but undemocratic for a county to vote on it? Who will say so? You can not find an argument that can be made against county option from a democratic standpoint. Either a majority of the county or the minority will rule. And who says it is democratic to have a minority decide what ought to be done in a county against the protest of the majority? There is nothing fair about the sa'or. You do not talk about fairness and justice when you talk about the saloon. The saloon is an outlaw and a nuisance, and it lives by sufferance where it lives at all. You do not defend the saloon as an institution, you tolerate it, if you tolerate it at all, on the theory that if you tried to abolish it you might get something worse. And yet the saloons exert more influence in politics than ten times as much capital invested in necessary and helpful industries. County option is not undemocratic; the time has come when you will have to stop saying that it is undemocratic to do anything disasteful against the liquor interests. A man can be a democrat in good standing without staggering when he walks.

This is not an attempt to commit the party to prohibition. When the county is made unit in determining whether or not liquor shall be sold, any democrat can vote either for or against prohibition because the party has not declared upon that question. Mr. Bryan asked that the democratic party in Nebraska give the people a law making the county the unit of decision on the liquor question. We think his position right and that the convention erred when it declined to follow his advice.

Concealed Weapon.

If Persons should stop carrying concealed weapons, the grand total of killings in the United States would be much less than at present. Gov. Wilson, refusing to grant a pardon to a young man convicted of carrying a concealed and deadly weapon, took occasion a few days ago to deliver a homily upon the evils of "run toting" which should be pondered by persons who are in the habit of signing petitions for pardon without pausing to consider the effects of too great freedom in making use of the pardoning power.

Says the Governor:

"There is no reason at all for this pardon, except that this is his first offense; that he is a young man of good habits and has but recently married; that he stated at the trial he was taking the pistol home, is connected with a prominent family, honestly sorry, he violated the law, and is penitent."

The petitioners do not seem to know how important and serious this law is. If it were faithfully enforced in every county, it would reduce the murders and shootings in this State by one half, but it was formerly practically unknown in practice. It has been my wish to enforce it rigidly, and I think the punishment in jail of a man of prominent family will do more to make the people enforce the law than the punishment of a dozen roughs.

"The application for pardon of the jail sentence is refused, and all such applications will be refused, except where the pistol is carried because of actual and real danger. If this young man wished to carry this pistol home, he could have done it lawfully and in the open, and not concealed, and hereafter I trust that young men of prominent families, who have a pistol to carry home, will carry it that way. I am sure this one will."

The law against carrying concealed weapons is not too severe and indeed it would be hard to think of a punishment too severe. It has failed to have a far-reaching effect because so many persons are pardoned and allowed to go unpunished, and the explanation of Gov. Wilson's is a very satisfactory reason for refusing to grant the pardon. Governors in other States might make this a lesson and we are sure that if all such requests for pardons should be treated as this one was that the American people would be better off.

Protect Your Town.

Protect your own town and thereby show that you have the best interest of your county at heart. As townspeople we should favor our town above every other as the growth and development of it is what will enhance the value of all property both in and about it. Then buy your drygoods, groceries, hardware, furniture, etc., at home, have your printing, your blacksmithing, your shoe-making done at home patronize home in every instance that you can. The success of our merchants and mechanics means new business houses and residents, additional demands for labor of various kinds.

The farmer a first class town affords a better market for his grain, a better trading point, and such a town is bound to increase the value of his land. Unquestionably in union there is strength." Let us protect our town.

The Return of Wendling.

Now that Joseph Wendling is securely confined in the Jefferson County jail at Louisville, there should be no delay in the beginning of his trial. It is the earnest hope of every Kentucky citizen that the Courts will not rest until his guilt or innocence be proven and justice done. If it is proven that Wendling is guilty of this terrible crime, his death should be at the earliest possible moment and according to law. That there has been no danger of mob violence at any time since Wendling was caught, speaks well for the people of Louisville. The Louisville authorities have done their duty and Capt. Carney deserves great credit for the capture of this man.

Now let them see that he has a fair and just trial and if he is guilty, let him pay the penalty.

For McCready.

Of the 126 Democratic papers in Kentucky nearly eighty of them have openly declared for Hon. James B. McCready for Governor. They realize that he can easily carry the banner of the party to victory.—Midway Clipper.

Not only the newspapers are for him but a great number of the best class of politicians throughout the State, and they will lead him to victory just as Hon. Harvey Helm will slaughter the Republican nominee in the next Congressional race.

General News.

Mr. Bryan announced at Rushville, Ind., that he would continue to make speeches for the Democratic party.

The Republicans of the Second appellate judicial district nominated Allen Dean, of Owensboro, for Judge.

Two hundred and thirty-one business failures were reported in the United States for the week ending August 11.

What are believed to be the bones of Kentucky soldiers, killed in 1812 in the Raft River massacre, were unearthed by excavators on the banks of the river near Toledo, O.

It was officially announced at Lanark, Scotland, that J. Armstrong Drexel, the American aviator, attained a world's altitude record by rising 6,750 feet.

The international conference on education at Brussels adopted a resolution favoring making physical instruction compulsory in all public and private schools.

Andrew Reulow, a highly-educated music teacher, was arrested in Boston because he tried to cash fifteen Russian bonds, which were identified as having been stolen at Tils, Russia, in 1907. He denies his guilt.

In the second primary held in the Tenth Tennessee congressional district to select a Democratic nominee Gen. George Gordon, of Memphis, secured a renomination over T. C. Looney, his competitor, by a majority ranging from 2,000 to 2,500.

The great Belgian Exposition at Brussels was destroyed by fire last Sunday. There were 100,000 people on the grounds and a panic ensued. Two persons were reported killed and about thirty were injured. An attempt was made to shoot the wild beast in the menagerie, but the flames drove the firemen back and the animals were burned to death.

It was announced that on his deathbed Congressman Brownlow, of the First Tennessee district, declared it to be his belief that the Hon. Alfred A. Taylor, former Congressman and formerly his bitter enemy, was the best man to fight successfully for the governorship on the Republican ticket.

Despite the veto of the bank examination bill passed at the last session of the Legislature by Gov. Willson, bank examination will soon be a reality unless the plans of Dr. Ben L. Bruner, Secretary of State, miscarry. Dr. Bruner has interested the bankers of the State in the plan and is sending out contracts for them to sign, agreeing to voluntary examination.

Col. Roosevelt suffered a sharp defeat in his home State, when the Republican State Committee, by a vote of 20 to 15, rejected a resolution naming him as temporary chairman of the Republican State Convention to be held at Saratoga on September 27. Vice President Sherman was unanimously chosen to act as temporary presiding officer of the convention.

A SOUTHERN VOLUNTEER
Yes sir, I fought with Stonewall,
And faced the fight with Lee;
But if this here Union goes to war,
Make one more gun for me!

I didn't shrink from Sherman,
As he galloped to the sea;

But if this here Union goes to war,
Make one more gun for me!

I was with 'em at Manassas—

The bully Boys in Gray;

I heard the thunderous roarin'

Round Stonewall Jackson's way;

And many a time this sword of mine

Has blazed the way for Lee;

But if this old nation goes to war,

Make one more sword for me!

I'm not so full o' fighting

Nor half so full of fun,

As I was back in the 60s

When I shouldered my old gun;

It may be that my hair is white—

Such thin's, you know, must be,

But if this old Union's in for war,

Make one more gun for me!

I hain't forgotten my raisin'—

Nor how in sixty-two,

Or thereabouts with battle shouts,

I charged the Boys in Blue;

And I say! I fought with Stonewall'

And blazed the way for Lee;

But if this old Union's in for war,

Make one more gun for me!

—Atlanta Constitution.

His NORTHERN BROTHER.

Just make it, old fellow,

I want to stand once more

Beneath the old flag with you

As in the days of yore.

Our fathers stood together

And fought on land and sea

The battles fierce that made us

A nation of the free.

I whipped you down at Vicksburg.

You licked me at Bull Run;

On many a field we struggled,

When neither victory won,

No North, no South we know'

Once more we stand together

To fight the common foe.

My head like yours is frosty—

Old age is creeping on;

Life's sun is lower sinking,

My day will soon be gone.

But if our country's honor

Needs once again her son,

I'm ready, too, old fellow—

So get another gun.

Winning the Professor's Daughter

By ELLIS STEPHENSON

It seemed incredible that such an altogether satisfactory girl as Nellie Masterson could be the daughter of a man so exactly opposite as the professor of sociology in Oread college. He was not good to look upon and he was not agreeable to come in contact with. Time and indigestion and the militant exploitation of certain theories which can never become popular had transformed him into a something which bore little resemblance to the ideal man who is growing old gracefully.

Prof. Ira Newton Masterson's personal appearance and manner were in the most decided antithesis to the idea of social betterment, and it came almost as a shock to be told that he was one of the most eminent sociologists of the day.

Nellie idolized him, but the time came when her courage and determination were put to the severest test. It happened that John Rossiter asked her to marry him. She had known him always and liked him. She even admitted the possibility that they were made for each other, and that she knew there would never be anybody else who would be so dear to her; at least he had made the assertion, she had not denied it.

John Rossiter was the richest man in Oread. That alone would have discredited him in the estimation of Professor Masterson, but when to this was added the fact that John Rossiter's wealth was inherited, the offense was past condonation. Hadn't the professor devoted himself body and soul to the task of making it clear to mankind that most of the evil in human life is due to inherited wealth? His views on the subject had even been translated into Russian and had received the honor of censorship and suppression.

It was in vain that John protested that he should not be held responsible for something in which he had no active part. So confident was he that Nellie would fall into his own way of thinking, that he was almost thrown into a state of helplessness by the firmness with which she opposed his suggestion to regard her father's arbitrary dictum as a mere professional plausibility.

"Why—why, Nellie, you don't mean to say you share his prejudices against inherited wealth, do you?" he asked with wide open eyes.

"I'm afraid I do, John," she replied seriously. "Anything father says seems right to me. I suppose I should make an exception of you if I were doing it."

"What in the name of goodness do you expect me to do?" he demanded excitedly. "Shall I sell all I have and give it to the poor?"

Nellie shook her head and sighed. "Do you really think I am worth it?" she asked.

"Try me and see for yourself," he returned eagerly. "I will do whatever you wish—gladly."

When he left her the expression on his face was not that of a man without hope. There was a determined look in his features, although something like a smile lurked in the corners of his mouth and his eyes were very bright.

In less than a fortnight from that day all Oread was in throes of a new excitement, Professor Masterson had been asked to resign.

It was John Rossiter who made his way to the desk and took a seat beside the man who found so much to decry in inherited wealth.

"Ah, Mr. Rossiter, it is you. I was expecting a visit from the committee of trustees," he said.

"I am that committee," said John with his best business manner. "I have been elected president of the board, and I come as a committee of one to notify you of our action in the matter of the department of sociology."

"Remarkable! I shouldn't have thought it possible," declared the professor, with every appearance of astonishment.

"The board had made up its mind to discontinue the department for the present."

"Yes, I feared as much."

"But I wouldn't hear of it. Sociology will be taught at Oread as long as I have any voice in the council."

"Amazing!"

"To make an interest manifest I have today given a large sum of money to put the department on a firm footing and endow a chair of sociology at Oread."

"Young man you have done nobly!" exclaimed the professor, grasping John's hand and shaking it wildly. "Although I shall not be a part of it, I shall take the most joyful interest in the new work."

"I hope you haven't made any other arrangement for next year, professor," said John. "We would regret exceedingly to lose you just as the way opened to you for fresh opportunity for achievement. On behalf of the trustees I am authorized to offer you a chair of sociology at Oread, with a salary of $3,000 per annum."

Professor Masterson was speechless. His lips moved, but no sound came from his mouth.

"Don't you think I'd better go and tell Nellie that the blockade against inherited wealth is raised?" John laughed.

For an answer the professor, with a mighty effort to command himself, uttered the single word, "Go!"

Farm and Stock.

The defects of the sow are as surely transmitted as are the strong points.

Animals need a variety of food, and those who fail to provide it do not get the best results.

Pigs intended for pork next fall, should have the best of care preparatory to finishing for slaughter.

The Indian farmers in Alberta, Canada, sold 200 head of cattle for $78 per head. These cattle were shipped direct to England.

It is a serious thing to excite animals and cause them to become too hot. Kindness to animals is always advisable, but it is especially desirable in hot weather.

All of the straw from wheat should be utilized. When grain is cut at the proper time, the straw is relished by animals. Bale and store good straw for your milk cows next winter.

Green food will be needed for sows that farrow in August. Plant cowpeas, peanuts, soy beans and sorghum for this purpose. Without grazing or sowing crops, summer pigs will not be profitable.

A glut of cattle from the drought stricken western States caused a drop of about $1.00 per hundred on Chicago market about August 1. Feeders in better circumstances held back to get benefit of their feed and with hope of a higher market.

The young pigs must have dry beds and the bedding should be changed frequently and lime, or some other disinfectant sprinkled in the bed when it is cleaned. Many young pigs become infected with disease through their navels coming in contact with damp and foul beds.

Some years ago the tendency of those engaged in improving corn was to try to secure long ears, without regard to the character of the cob. It is now apparent that in corn growing, as in other things, what may be termed the medium ear is generally the best. It has been found easier to develop an ear of moderate length, so that it will have a large diameter, long kernels and a small amount of cob, than to develop a long ear with the same qualities.

Strange Phenomenon.

It is no isolated phenomenon to find together the highest ideals and the most contemptible meanness.

WASHINGTON NEWS. (BY TAVENNER) (Special to The Record.)

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 18, 1910.

Thousands of Republicans throughout the land, and in the insurgent districts particularly, are becoming impatient at Roosevelt's apparent reluctance to state exactly where he stands on the subject of insurrection.

The result is that Theodore Roosevelt is not quite as popular an ex-president as he was immediately following his return from Africa.

This is an unabashed conviction that has been forced upon me after having traveled from Washington to the Pacific coast and back. I have talked with hundreds of persons of all classes and have sojourned especially in the insurgent districts.

Roosevelt is not unpopular. I do not wish to convey that impression. He still has a large following.

But many of Roosevelt's admirers seem to feel the ex-president is waiting to see which faction of his party is the strongest, instead of making a decision on the basis of which faction is morally right.

If Roosevelt acts quickly and with clear-cut candor he may prevent further inroads on his popularity. If he does not so act, the movement which he is given credit for having started will march on without him, with LaFollette or some other genuine progressive as the head.

WILL T. R. ALD LODGE?

Word has come to the west via the Associated Press that Roosevelt will campaign for the re-election of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, who declares ultimate consumer is a myth.

Roosevelt's admirers are gulping hard over this information. They have been educated by LaFollette and other genuine progressives to know Lodge as a tool of Aldrich and the special interests.

They also have the word of no less authority than Representative Butler Ames, a Republican insurgent of Lodge's own state of Massachusetts that the political machine of Senator Lodge "is backed by all the large corporations" and is used to "advance the selfish financial schemes of the large railroads, banking and manufacturing interests he (Lodge) serves in the halls of Congress."

Roosevelt's great popularity has been largely due to the belief of the people that he was the enemy of such corporate servers as Lodge.

Therefore all over the land the ex-president's friends are asking: "How can Roosevelt conscientiously speak for a man like Lodge, when he does nothing for men like LaFollette?"

The mere asking of this question has the tendency of placing Roosevelt on the defensive. And it is bad for any politician, great or small, to be on the defensive.

THE DEMOCRATIC POSITION.

Republican spell binders have intimated the Democratic party stands for free trade. Absolutely free trade is impractical with the United States.

Every country in the world, including Great Britain, levies some tariff, and this country must always do so.

The Democratic position on the subject is substantially as follows:

First: The government should never collect one penny more of revenue than necessary to administer its affairs with rigid economy.

Second: The lowest rate that will yield the greatest amount of revenue should be imposed.

Third: Luxuries should always bear the highest revenue duties.

Fourth: Experience has vindicated the wisdom of ad valorem duties as being the correct practice.

Fifth: Revenue duties should be laid so as to operate with equality throughout the union, discriminating neither for nor against any class or section.

Sixth: Absolute necessities should go on the free list.

Seventh: There should be imposed a revenue duty upon practically all imports, with certain exceptions. These exceptions should be determined by the test.

Imports coming in competition with trust-controlled products should be placed on the free list, and articles of absolute necessity should be imported free of duty.

ALDRICH AT HEADQUARTERS.

Quite an important conference was held on J. Pierpont Morgan's yacht "Corsair" off Newport, R. I. recently. It is understood that Morgan's guests included Sen. Nelson W. Aldrich, Sen. George P. Wetmore, who had just returned from seeing President Taft at Beverly, and Charles D. Norton, the President's secretary.

Morgan is known to take the view that Aldrich's promised retirement from the Senate would be a "national calamity", and it is believed he urged Aldrich to reconsider the matter.

Politicians in Rhode Island have never believed Aldrich would retire at the end of this term, as he announced last spring. It was not expected that Wall street would consent to lose its most able representative in the Senate.

FAVORING "NECESSITIES."

President Taft asserts that in the Payne-Aldrich bill necessities were "favored" at the expense of luxuries. Here are a few comparisons which show how the Republicans really "favored" the necessities: The necessity raw sugar was taxed 55 per cent., while the luxury diamonds, cut but not set, were taxed only 10 per cent. Such necessities as blankets, flannels, women's dress goods, shawls, knit goods, weaving apparel and other woolen manufactures, were made to pay a tax of from 80 to 140 per cent., while the luxury automobiles were taxed but 45 per cent.

ALASKA GOES INSURGENT.

Even the people of far-away Alaska have rebelled at Republican stand-patism. James Wickersham, independent Republican of Juneau, has just been re-elected to Congress over Edward Orr, the Taft Guggenheim candidate.

They also have the word of no less authority than Representative Butler Ames, a Republican insurgent of Lodge's own state of Massachusetts that the political machine of Senator Lodge "is backed by all the large corporations" and is used to "advance the selfish financial schemes of the large railroads, banking and manufacturing interests he (Lodge) serves in the halls of Congress."

Rights and Duties.

The world is sick and weary of talk, perpetual talk about rights, and it listens with avidity and hope to one who speaks of duties and speaks to them plainly and emphatically.

Giant Himalaya Berry.

main canes 12 to 18 inches long by 10 to 12 inches wide, having 50 to 100 blooms and later fruits. Almost all other blackberries have 10 to 15. The Giant Himalaya is also excellent for covering old buildings, walls, summer houses, etc. It looks fine trained to a post in the lawn, tying the canes to the post. When they reach the top, pinch them back (say two inches) they will then branch out and form a bush or weeping tree, that is a beautiful sight in July with its shell pink blossoms.

Spraying Fruit.

Spraying is a preventive and not a remedy. There are a few fungic diseases that can be destroyed by spraying, but they can also be prevented by the same operation. The damage done by a disease or an insect can be repaired only by the plant itself. Such work as can be done to protect it from further damage is about all that can be done for it. Spraying should be done early and the protection made more complete before the diseases and insects appear.

Hens in the Orchard.

Hens will pick up many insects if allowed the run of the orchard, to the advantage of both hens and orchard. Roosting in the tree, though, should be prevented.

Teachers' Institute.

The Joint County Teachers' Institute will be held in Danville beginning August 29. Supt., M. A. Cassidy of Lexington, and Miss Lella E. Partridge, of Richmond, have been chosen instructors.

I have explicit orders from State Superintendent, Regentopolis, to revoke the certificate of any teacher who fails to attend this institute.

Give the work horse proper rest.

Egg eating by fowls is a serious vice.

The chickens have many pecks of fun at feed time.

The gasoline engine is solving the labor problem on the farm.

The nest of the setting hen should be kept clean and free from vermin.

Gum exuding from the roots of the tree? Bores at work; get after them.

When the colt is dropped it should receive nourishment from the dam within the first half hour.

Sow some turnips in succession every two weeks. A row 20 feet long will produce a large quantity.

Agriculture is an art which adorns the land so that it adds to man's physical health and mental pleasure.

We can kill weeds by spraying, but they will not stay dead without rotation, mowing and pasture of the land.

After the sweet corn has been used cut the plants and feed them to the cows. The land may then be used for late beans.

At no time is the skimmed milk in a better condition to make the most of it than when it is fresh and sweet just from the separator.

With a good supply of straw for bedding much good manure can be made every year, and manure is the very life and success of a farm.

If your fruit needs thinning and you have not already thinned it, do it at once. It is better to thin late than to run the risk of injuring the trees.

Prune blackberries and raspberries. Cut back the canes and remove all dead plants. This will greatly rejuvenate the plants and cause fruitfulness next year.

Keep the weeds down. A garden full of weeds is no endorsement for you as a husbandman. Late cultivation is necessary, for weeds are not retarded by the summer sun.

If the flower garden crops are not making due progress stimulate them with nitrate of soda. A teaspoonful worked into the soil about a dahlia is about the correct proportion.

If the grass on the entire lawn seems sickly and does not make a good growth, it may be that the soil is sour. In such case give the entire lawn a dressing of lime to sweeten the soil.

As there is no proportion between equal things, your farm, to be proportionally beautiful, should be made up of unequal. Unequal fields, unequal garden beds, unequal buildings, unequal rooms, and so on.

Don't build a large house, lay extensive yards, and then fill them with expensive fowls until you have given the business a fair trial on a less elaborate scale. Practical experience is a valuable asset in profitable poultry raising.

Kill the weeds in the corn and potato patches. Weeds take up moisture the crops need and prevent the circulation of air, thus encouraging the spread of plant diseases. They shade the ground and keep the soil from absorbing heat—an important factor in corn growth.
